Rescue Squad Reports 44 Calls Answered In September

The Appomattox County Rescue Squad has really had a busy month during September. One big thing was the planning of their annual Fund Drive, a goal of which has been set at $10,000. Members of the Squad would like to thank Lloyd Vaughan and THE TIMES-VIRGINIAN for the excellent publicity given them in connection with this 1971-72 Fund Drive.

A "report of receipts" sign has been placed over the Appomattox Hardware so that the citizens of our County can see how the Fund Drive progresses. At the present time, a red light is burning and will continue to be on red until the half-way mark of the goal is reached. Appomattox County Rescue Squad reaches $5,000 and when the goal of $10,000 is reached . . . watch for the green light . . . the Fund Drive will be a complete success when that little green light goes on!

During the month of September, the ARCS answered 44 emergency calls, traveling 2229 miles and expending a total of 160 1/4 man hours in answer to these calls. Volunteer time, other than this, included 95 hours given by members of the Squad on stand-by over Labor Day week end; 47 3/4 hours were spent on stand-by at football games and at one donkey ball game; 17 1/2 hours were spent demonstrating their new SWAB ambulance to local civic organizations and 27 1/2 hours were spent in work on equipment.

A break down on the 44 calls answered are as follows: 1. Asthma Attack, 5 Transports, 2 Bee Stings, 1 Blood Clot, 2 Dead On Arrival, 2 Possible Appendicitis, 4 Miscellaneous, 10 Possible Heart Attacks, 6 Broken Bones, 4 Wrecks, 2 Cuts, 3 Strokes, 1 Nosebleed and 1 victim was treated for Gun Shot wounds.

In addition to these activities, six of the members of the Appomattox County Rescue Squad have completed the teaching of both Standard and Advanced First Aid classes.

Past Year Better For Local Farmers

Shopping Center On Schedule

Construction of the first phase of Triangle Plaza Shopping Center is continuing on schedule. The first phase contains three buildings that will be occupied by Revco Drug, Kings Super Market and Super Dollar Variety Stores. If work can continue on schedule, these three stores should be open for business by early December, according to a spokesman for the developers, Courtland Realty Corp., J. B. Drinkard and W. E. Jamerson. The owners are continuing negotiations with other possible tenants for the second phase of development. Present plans call for occupancy of the second phase in the early summer of 1972.

Weather Big Factor In Products Sold

Big, Bigger, Biggest... that's the story of agriculture in Appomattox during the growing season drawing to a close.

Optimum growing conditions -rainfall, sunshine, soil preparation, good seed -- all combined to produce a record year of production of tobacco, corn, wheat, cattle, soy beans, etc. according to a report from James A. Smith, extension agent, agriculture.

Income from all farm products will be higher than ever before this year says Smith, even with a decreasing number of farms in actual production. Inflated prices and increased productivity are partial the answer to this. In contrast, the farmer and his wife are paying increasingly high prices for the machinery, seed and services they need to run their enterprises. Thus, most growers in the local area are "hamstrung" by a situation in which inflation affects almost everything they have to purchase, either for production purposes or for family living, while failing to bring them equivalent benefits in the way of better prices in the market place.

Tobacco Picture

In 1971 Norway has been the major importer of Virginia's crop of dark-fired tobacco. Appomattox County, according to preliminary reports from the county ASC office, will harvest 35% of its allocated acreage, a small but significant rise from the county's 29% allotted acreage harvested last year. Tobacco will be "darker" this year -- due to increased moisture in the leaf and the necessity for additional firings in the curing barn. Thus, says Smith, he thinks that the lighter colored Austrian-type tobacco will be the high $$ seller.

Soybeans

"We have the largest acreage ever, in soybeans," says Smith and weather in the big factor, he adds. Recent reports received by agent Smith indicate that when the crop is in -- in October, there will be on hand less than one month's supply of last year's soybeans, a dangerous low in world supply, ordinarily. With this year's good weather, however, the large crop should be ample for needs for coming months, and soy bean futures of $3.00 bushel indicate at least a reasonable return for the farmer who planted his acreage in soybeans.

The scientist and business enterprise combined this year, also, to produce a male-sterile soybean, a development which implies more disease resistance and increased production

There was lots of time volunteered by citizens of the community in helping at the rest stop by serving coffee, pepsi and doughnuts to weary travelers.

Hout's Article In 'Digest'

Alfred Paul Hout, former member of the Interpretive Staff Appomattox Court House National Historical Park (now taking early retirement) is the author of an article first printed in "The Lion", publications of Lions international and now condensed in the October issue of "Readers Digest".

Author Hout and his wife, Colleen, have been living in Appomattox for the past three years. Mrs. Hout is quite active in many civic and church organizations. Mr. Hout, for many years a writing and photography enthusiast, has enjoyed success as a free lance writer and photographer. The houts are making their home in Appomattox.

In his article about "A Little Human Happiness" he writes of the famous humorist Will Rogers and an experience in Rogers' youth demonstrating his love for mankind and compassion for the "man who is down." He quotes Rogers as saying "human happiness is kinda scarce." The two-page article recalls how Rogers contributed to one family's happiness by allowing the father to butcher and enjoy a steer which actually belonged to Rogers and his ranch in Oklahoma.

This Is The Way To Start The Day!

Jessie Campbell starts the day with a $80.62 donation for the Appomattox County Rescue Squad. Jessie and his staff collected the $80.62 from customers and friends for the Rescue Fund Drive which began officially October 1st. This is just one example of the fine co-operation of the people of Appomattox County. Accepting the donation is Bill Sperry, First Lieutenant, of the Appomattox County Rescue Squad.
